
ROBERT GURALNICK, University of Southern California
Probabilistic Methods in Finite Group Theory

We shall discuss the use of probabilistic methods in generation of finite groups. We shall give a survey of some of the main results in the area and also discuss some more recent results. We shall also discuss some related results on derangements in finite primitive permutation groups.